Race, Ethnicity, and Disability
Veterans and Benefits in Post–Civil War America
Larry M. Logue and Peter Blanck
With a Foreword by Dick Thornburgh
“This book should alert those who care about rights for people with disabilities to be ever mindful of the motivations that may underlie government actions.”

- From the Foreword by Dick Thornburgh

“Logue and Blanck demonstrate through impeccable historical research how stereotypes affect even those who have bravely served their country with honour. Its implications affect veterans in particular and all disabled persons. Good history not only reveals the past but also points to the future. This is history at its best.”

- Gerald Quinn, National University of Galway

Larry M. Logue is Professor of History and Political Science at Mississippi College. He won the Francis and Emily Chipman First-Book Prize for A Sermon in the Desert: Belief and Behavior in Early St. George, Utah, and is the author of To Appomattox and Beyond: The Civil War Soldier in War and Peace and co-editor of The Civil War Soldier: A Historical Reader and The Civil War Veteran: A Historical Reader.

Peter Blanck is a University Professor at Syracuse University and Chairman of the Burton Blatt Institute (BBI). He is a trustee of YAI/National Institute for People with Disabilities Network and Chairman of the Global Universal Design Commission (GUDC). Blanck’s most recent book is Disability Civil Rights Law and Policy (with Hill, Siegal, and Waterstone).